

"No Place to Hide: The Rehtaeh Parsons Story" Documentary & Town Hall Community Discussion

Wednesday October 28, 2015

Revue Cinema

Doors open at 6:30pm

Film screening 7:00pm

Town Hall Discussion at 8:00pm

$12 General / $9 Students, Seniors, Members

A portion of the proceeds will be donated to the Rehtaeh Parsons Society.

As kids become teens, parents will face new parenting challenges. A recent study confirms that 95% of teens are online, using social media of all types.

If you want to understand the risks that social media poses to our children, how to spot potential problems and then how to talk about it with you teens, this is the evening for you.

As part of our documentary series, Docs in Revue, No Place to Hide: The Rehtaeh Parsons Story, official selection of 2015 Hot Docs, will have an exclusive screening and Town Hall Community Event at The Revue. This film explores the devastating consequences and pernicious forms of cyber-bullying.

After the film, join us as we will bring together filmmaker Rama Rau with an academic, an educator and online advocate, a Toronto Police Officer and two teens from ProjectSlut for a moderated discussion about cyber-bullying, rape culture and victim blaming.

Please note: This film explores difficult subject matter in a candid way. Parents are advised not to bring anyone under 13 years of age. Teens are welcome with a supportive adult.

The Town Hall Panel:

- Melissa Van Wert, Moderator
Melissa recently completed her PhD in Social Work at University of Toronto.
- Rama Rau, Director of film
Rama Rau is an award winning writer-director of many films, including No Place to Hide.
- Lauren McInroy (MSW, RSW)
Lauren is a doctoral candidate in Social Work, University of Toronto.
- Shannon Salisbury
Shannon started Creating Consent Culture, an ongoing curriculum support resource project for Ontario educators.
- Andrea Villanueva
Andy is 18-years-old and a co-founder of project slut. She studies political science at York University
- Erin Dixon
Erin also 18-years-old and a co-founder of project slut. She will soon be attending Ryerson University.
- Laurie McCann
Laurie has been a police officer with the Toronto Police Service since 1998.